BERGLAND REPORTS ON FOREIGN OWNERSHIP OF U.S. AGRICULTURAL LAND:

ABILENE, Tex., Sept. 20--Foreign investors hold an interest in about 4 million acres of U.S. agricultural land, according to a preliminary data examined by the U.S. Department of Agriculture and announced here today by Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland.

The review indicates foreign owners hold less than one-half of 1 percent of all private U.S. agricultural land.

The estimate is based on a preliminary review of 4,500 reports filed as of Sept. 1 by foreign investors under the Agricultural Foreign Investment Disclosure Act of 1978.

Bergland said distribution patterns indicate that foreign ownership is heavily concentrated in the South and West, although foreign agricultural land holdings were reported in all 50 states. Georgia, South Carolina, and Tennessee account for 27 percent of all foreign-owned acreage (table 1), he said.

Similar concentration patterns are apparent in the countries-of-origin of foreign owners (table 2), Bergland said. A relatively few countries account for the bulk of foreign-held U.S. agricultural land. From the data examined so far, investors from the United Kingdom, Luxembourg, West Germany and Canada hold 72 percent of all foreign-owned land reported.

As of Sept. 1, over 5,000 reporting forms had been received in Washington, D.C. Of these, 3,000 reports, accounting for 2,687,828 acres, were analyzed by the department's Economics, Statistics, and Cooperatives Service. The other reports had to be returned for further information or corrections, or are still being processed. Consequently, the preliminary results shown in the tables are subject to revision. A more thorough analysis of the first reports received by the department will be submitted to the president and Congress Nov. 2.

Under the law, foreign owners of U.S. agricultural land as of Feb. 1, 1979, were required to file a report with the department by Aug. 1. Those who acquired or disposed of U.S. agricultural land after Feb. 1 are required to file within 90 days.

They must file with the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) office serving the county where the land is located. Failure to report, or filing late or misleading reports, can result in penalties of up to 25 percent of the fair market value of the owner's interest in the agricultural land.

All foreign individuals, governments, or legal entities created under the laws of, or having their principal place of business in, a foreign country are required to file. In addition, all U.S. legal entities in which foreigners hold 5 percent or more interest are required to report their agricultural land holdings.

The law defines agricultural land as all land used for agricultural, forestry, or timber production. This includes land in agricultural use when purchased as well as land later converted to agricultural use. Tracts smaller than one acre, which produce less than $1,000 worth of gross agricultural sales a year, are exempt from the reporting requirement.
